

I can't wait for all the fun things coming up! I'm quickly learning that this is the best time of year (thanks Mom and Dad!)  so much to look forward to. I hope you're as excited as I am!

Happy holidays! 🎁🎅🎊

The Holidays are Here!

A young child with blonde hair, wearing a white onesie with a colorful pattern, sits on a light-colored wooden floor. To the right, a Christmas tree is decorated with lights and ornaments. A small dog is lying down on a blue mat under the tree. A wooden chair is visible on the left.

Baby, it's cold inside!

It was NINE degrees inside Gaylor Palms for the ICE! event we went to last week, I had to bundle up nice and warm with mom!

I saw the biggest Christmas tree EVER last week at Disney! It was soooo tall, I couldn't see the top, even when I looked really hard. It had lots and lots of shiny lights, and it was super pretty. I think it was as big as a giraffe! I wanted to climb it, but Mommy said no. It was the best tree I ever saw!

What's New with Cru?

Cru is officially 14 months—and he's walking (running), talking (in his own language), and telling us EXACTLY what he wants these days. Here are a few highlights of his latest adventures.

The Coolest Kid in Town

We had the best time on Halloween this year! Mom and Dad took me around the town in my sweet ride as Ferris Bueller and I got lots of yummy candy. I look forward to next year when we can all dress up again!

I forgot to mention last month...but shoutout to Meemaw for making me the coolest leopard print vest so that I could cruise around as the legend himself.

Snackcidents

I've learned what the box of Cheerios looks like...and the other day in Publix just couldn't wait to open them. Mom and I left quite the trail of Cheerios around Publix...but doesn't everyone need a snack while they ride?

A New Boss in Town

In case this photo wasn't enough...Mom said to tell you that there's only one boss in the house and it isn't her or Dad. That's right, I'm running this house and am definitely in charge these days. I'm running around and having a great time telling everyone what I want!

Mmm Mou & Friends

Mom and Dad took me to see my favorite mice at Disney a few weeks back. I love Mickey (MMM Mou as I call him) and Minnie. There are so many Mickey and Minnie decorations in my house...and I even have a Disney Christmas tree I love to show anyone that visits!

Bubble Wands!?

Mom and Dad let me pick out a toy last week at Disney...and could you think of what could be better than a BUBBLE WAND!?! I can't. I love saying "bubble, bubble, pop!" (like Ms. Rachel of course) and waving my wand for everyone to see.

Busy, Busy, Busy!

Listen, when I grow up, I want to be as cool as Mom and Dad. So when I see them working hard in their offices...I have to join. Mom says I can work with her in the evening and we spend time typing away and using not one but TWO mouse and keyboard sets to work...I'm very busy these days.

Happy Thanksgiving! I'm super thankful for my family, my friends, and that my dog Nala is feeling lots better after she lost her eye a few weeks ago. She's the best one-eyed dog ever, and I love her so much! I hope everyone eats yummy food on Thanksgiving and gets all stuffed and happy. After dinner, it's the best when you feel sleepy and snuggly, like a big, full turkey. Have the best Thanksgiving ever!

Love,
Cru & his parents